Excerpt: . ITINERARY OF THE CENTRAL ROUTE. From, Westport, Missouri, to Los Angeles, California. APPENDIX. Letter From Mr. Charles W. McClanahan, Published in the National Intelligencer (Washington), Nov. 7, 1853. Fort Massachusetts (N. M.), Aug. 28, 1853. Hon. T. H. Benton: -- Dear Sir: Knowing that you feel interested in the middle route for the great Pacific Railroad, and believing that any information in regard to it would be acceptable, no matter how humble the source from which it comes, I have determined to state what I know about it. This information is from travelling the route just behind Captain Gunnison. I left Virginia the first of April, went to Missouri and Illinois to purchase sheep for the California market. After purchasing, I started to take them by Salt Lake, the Humboldt River, c., feeling assured that I would have to winter at Salt Lake....
