Cincinnati is among the larger cities and shows how a state imposes on a city school system an archaic system of examinations. It also shows how a large local board of education can be equally non-progressive in constituting a board of examiners of three members, two of whom are laymen. Worcester is among the second class cities in size and was selected to illustrate an undesirable method, too commonly employed, of placing the discharge of the highly technical and professional function of examining teachers in the hands of a committee of the board of education consisting of laymen. Concerning eligibility requirements we find: 1. At least a normal school course is specified as the amount of schooling required of elementary school candidates in four of the cities. Boston does not fix as a standard any amount of schooling. 2. College or university graduation is fixed as the amount of schooling required of high school candidates in three cities. Worcester does not define any amount of schooling. St. Louis may accept normal graduates. 3. Boston and St. Louis fix as a prerequisite two years successful experience for elementary school candidates. Boston fixes three years for high school candidates and Cincinnati two years. Concerning the examinations required of elementary school candidates, we find: 1. Only English grammar and American history are required of candidates in all five cities. 2. Arithmetic is required in four cities, but algebra or plane geometry may be substituted...
